Physical Security

Access Control

Does your business manage entry to sensitive locations? If not, the consequences can add up…

- Theft of intellectual property and misuse of company assets
- Exposure of confidential information and loss of client trust
- Unwelcome intruders and exposure to litigation

Benefits of Access Control

- Protects Employees - Promotes employee safety by keeping out unauthorized personnel and outside intruders.

- Safeguards Assets – Permits authorized entry, while maintaining a high level of building and property security.

- Provides Audit Trail - Identifies who was in a specific area at an exact time that an incident occurred

- Eliminates Mechanical Keys - Avoids all the hassles associated with mechanical key and lock systems – the time and cost of re-keying when an employee is terminated, the cost of duplicate keys, lost keys, tracking who has keys, and more.

Getting Started

Here are the basic access control components you will need:
- Access control system and readers, real-time clock, supervised input points
- Relays, Processor, Operating System, Database Server

We'll run the numbers to show you how access control solutions pay for themselves quickly.
